

Spiliotopoulos rumor for county commission

George Spiliotopoulos will be nominated today to fill a seat on the Alameda County Planning Commission vacated by the resignation of Jack Gardella.

The nomination is expected to come before this morning's meeting of the board of supervisors. Supervisor John D. Murphy is entitled to name Gardella's successor, but Murphy's nominee must be approved by a majority of that full board.

A former Pleasanton city councilman and the city's vice mayor in 1970-1972, Spiliotopoulos is identified with a number of civic ventures and business organizations. He is president of The Cheese Factory with headquarters in Pleasanton, and outlets in Dublin and other Northern California points. Currently he serves as a director of the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce. He is a product of Pleasanton schools and a 1964 graduate of Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo. Spiliotopoulos was born 35 years ago in Athens, Greece.

Swimmers not on strike

The lack of a sufficient number of lifeguards due to the East Bay Regional Park District strike did not dissuade these youngsters from taking advantage of the warm weather this weekend at Shadow Cliffs Park.

No board replacement for Hersevoort tonight

The Amador Valley Joint High School District Board of Trustees will hold off naming of a board member to replace Bert Hersevoort until a special meeting later this month.

Board members convene at 8 tonight in the District Educational Center at 123 Main St. in Pleasanton, following an executive session at 7:30.

Nine persons are known to have submitted applications, including Michael Bailey, a senior at Amador Valley High, Douglas Dollard, an unsuccessful candidate in the last board election, and Wayne Barnes, prominent in Dublin High School Booster Club activities. The person appointed will serve two years and two months.

However, board president Jack Delaney told The Times Monday trustees have not had enough time to speak with all who submitted applications. He said the appointment would be made at a special meeting, presumably later this month.

Tonight's meeting is the annual reorganizational meeting. Charles Beazley, an incumbent, and Dr. Geraldine Donaldson will be sworn in for four year terms, followed by election of board president and clerk of the board. The positions are currently held down by Jack Delaney and Wally Decker, respectively.

When the new board is constituted, they'll face an agenda that should take the better part of the evening.

The Sunol Glen School District will make a presentation concerning their upcoming revenue limit increase election.

Amador's preliminary budget for 1975-76 will be presented and the district, under terms of a new law, will make public their response to the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association salary and benefits proposal.

Reports are scheduled from Valley High School, career and vocational education, buildings and student representatives.

Trustees are scheduled to award bid on Amador campus lighting with nine having been received. They will also call for bids for construction of Regional Occupational Program facilities, consider a contract with the County Sheriff's Department, and call for bids on ROP buses.

10 projects approved by council

PLEASANTON - The city council reaffirmed its support Monday night for 10 recreation and park projects totalling $430,000.

At a study session with the Park and Recreation Commission two weeks ago, the council had agreed to reassess those capital improvements in light of the city's bleak financial situation.

Monday night, however, to the pleasure of a standing room only crowd the council approved all 10 projects and made no changes.

Representatives of the Little League and cultural arts groups urged the council not to make changes at this late date.

The 10 projects are Walnut Grove Park, Cultural Arts Center, Sports Parks Phase II, Val Vista Park, Hansen Park, deepwater pool, bike paths, remodeling of the Housing Authority office as a preschool, paving the parking lot at Pleasanton Elementary School and installing a windscreen at the Muirwood Park tennis courts.

Dick Botta of the Pleasanton American Little League emphasized the united front the various groups brought to the meeting. "Pleasanton Little League is fully behind the deepwater pool, Cultural Arts Center and all the other projects. We ask you not to change any."

Air quality still in question

Board to fund 7.3 VCSD sewer boost

SACRAMENTO - The State Water Resources Control Board has indicated it intends to fund an expansion of the Valley Community Services District sewer plant to 7.3 million gallons of capacity.

The state board also indicated, in a letter to Paul DeFalco, regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, that it would allow additional capacity — above that 7.3 mgd figure — if the local agencies are willing to fund it on their own.

Any expansion of sewer facilities, however, will be subject to air quality constraints.

The letter states the SWRCB will include a condition in its "concept approval" that connections will be restricted "where adverse air quality impacts would ensue from such connections."

The board admits there is a "potential conflict" between the California Environmental Quality Act and the funding and capacity for the expansion and states an "air mitigation plan" being prepared by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District and local agencies would be filed with the EPA.

The state water board is now awaiting word from DeFalco as to whether the EPA will require an additional Environmental Impact Statement on the proposed projects.

In its letter to the EPA, the board also indicated that its review "does not find that Pleasanton is bound to supply services" to any developers other than Morrison Homes. That commitment was the result of an Alameda County Superior Court finding and has been appealed by Pleasanton.

The city had supplied the state board with a report listing commitments it had made to developers in the 1960's for sewer capacity. The state board, however, found that, exclusive of Morrison Homes, "it appears Pleasanton's commitments are limited to a promise to provide service, if and when capacity is available."

In addition, the state determined that, "Whether Pleasanton is or is not bound to provide service, such agreements do not bind the state to provide grant funds for construction to meet such commitments."

The letter also notes that to provide grant funds for that additional capacity "would set a very unfortunate precedent."

The state board's breakdown for fundable capacity is as follows:

- ✓ VCSD service area (north of Interstate 580) 3.464 mgd;
- ✓ Pleasanton VCSD area (south of I-580) 1.767 mgd;
- ✓ Pleasanton Sunol Boulevard service area 2.082 mgd.

The total fundable capacity amounts to 7.313 mgd.

The City of Pleasanton has consistently maintained an expansion to anything less than 8 mgd would not be sufficient for its needs and to develop land it believes should be developed in the next decade, would require an expansion to 8.8 mgd.

Local officials said Monday they would withhold comment until the EPA has responded to the state water board's position.

Swimming at Shadow Cliffs strike issue

Will there be swimming at Shadow Cliffs Regional Park during the current strike?

Depends on whom you ask.

On Saturday, the first summer day since maintenance workers, naturalists and other East Bay Regional Park employees went out on strike April 3, there were three lifeguards on duty at Shadow Cliffs.

But nobody was sitting in the lifeguard's chair. Instead, the guards were taking turns using the megaphone to order out anyone who wanted to swim in water more than three feet deep.

A hand-painted sign attached to the lifeguard chair explained there was no swimming because of the strike. A dozen children splashed in the shallow water while adults sunbathed instead.

Not that the lifeguards are on strike. But, in an apparent effort to discourage the public from flocking to EBRPD parks (which also include Sunol Wilderness and Del Valle in Livermore), EBRPD has put on only a minimum of lifeguards at each park and has instructed them to keep people out of the water.

All swim facilities are closed down, according to EBRPD's official news release. But that isn't what lifeguards have been led to understand.

"If we get a lot of attendance, they'll probably call out all the guards," one lifeguard said Saturday. "If we have 500 or 600 people out here, you can't really keep them out of the water. They are hoping not to have to open up because the litter will pile up, the toilets will have to be pumped out and the county will close it down altogether for sanitary reasons."

Surveying the grounds, he and his companion estimated Saturday's attendance at 400 to 500 people. Trash cans, which will not be emptied for the duration of the strike, were already half full, mostly with Coke cups from the concession stand which was open for business as usual. Some cups and ice-cream wrappers lay scattered on the ground, not to be picked up until the strike is over unless some concerned visitor does some cleaning up.

"If it's like this tomorrow," predicted the lifeguard, "they'll probably open up."

But Sunday's skies were gray and chilly, averting that chance.

The slowdown means less work for the lifeguards, since on any hot weekend there are as many as eight guards on duty and their number is now reduced to two or three.

"We don't like that," one admitted. "Most of us are college students and we depend on the income."

According to an EBRPD official, concessionaires have been notified about the strike and many have chosen to shut down their stands for the duration of the walkout.

Meanwhile, East Stanley Boulevard has turned into "strike row," with Shadow Cliffs pickets flanked by picketing truck drivers at the two big sand and gravel concerns, Lone Star and Kaiser.

Far from trying to keep the public out, EBRPD strikers are welcoming them with open arms because they feel the use people give the parks will further dramatize EBRPD's need for their services.

"Hi! Stop and talk with a friendly picket!" says one particularly congenial picket sign.

Some 185 members of Local 2484, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, walked off their jobs April 3 when negotiations between the union and the big park district reached a stalemate. The district has 210 permanent employees, and EBRPD wanted to remove a disputed number from the union and classify them into management positions. According to the district, only 18 positions are in dispute and EBRPD has offered to replace the employees by allowing an equivalent number of summer employees into the union.

Union members feel the door would be open to reclassify as many as 50 positions, many without union approval, effectively breaking the union. They are not interested in a "trade" of year-round employees for seasonal ones.

The two parties are apart on some 74 other issues, according to EBRPD. Pay raises have already been agreed upon. A state conciliator was meeting with each side separately last week in an effort to find some grounds for agreement, but talks broke down Friday afternoon and had not resumed by yesterday afternoon.

No trouble has been reported locally, although a temporary restroom-bathhouse complex at Contra Loma was burned down Sunday.

Meanwhile, EBRPD did settle with a smaller group of employees who belong to a different union. They are the 22 safety officers, sergeants and

A rough way to awaken

DUBLIN - A 26-year-old carnival worker was in surgery at press time Monday following a freak accident at Dublin Boulevard and Clark Avenue.

William Davenport, an employee of the Davis carnival, allegedly was run over by one of the carnival's trucks as he dozed beneath its wheels early Monday morning.

He was rushed to Valley Memorial Hospital where he was taken to surgery with a fractured pelvis and abdominal injuries.

The carnival was setting up shop for a week's run at the Dublin Plaza Shopping Center. An investigation is pending.

Apperson faces water quality board

OAKLAND - William Apperson's proposed Diamond A Guest Ranch faces two challenges this week — before the Regional Water Quality Control Board on Tuesday and in Alameda County Superior Court on Friday.

The regional water board, at the direction of its parent-body, the State Water Resources Control Board, will reconsider discharge requirements established for the guest ranch at a hearing scheduled for late Tuesday morning.

On Friday afternoon, Judge Lyle Cook will accept additional testimony in the suit filed by the Sierra Club and other environmental groups which seek to stop Apperson's development on the grounds it will damage the environment.

Apperson is proposing to construct a health spa, tennis and equestrian center on 1,300 acres of his 2,500-acre ranch on Apperson Ridge, near Sunol Regional Park. The great majority of the 1,300 acres will be left in its natural state for hiking and horse trails.

The state board's directive to the regional board ordering a "reconsideration" of discharge requirements for the guest ranch could be a precedent-setting action.

The RWQCB had originally set those discharge requirements strictly on the basis of protection of ground and surface waters. In order to bring the project into compliance with a 1968 resolution, which requires developments outside of "urbanized areas" to be monitored by an established governmental agency, the board required Apperson to enter into a contractual agreement with the City of Pleasanton for monitoring of its sewage treatment facilities.

The state board, however, is now directing the regional board to look at "other environmental impacts" above and beyond the specific protection of ground and surface waters.

They are broadening their interpretation of that section of the California Environmental Act, according to the spokesman. Although the RWQCB has never before been authorized to consider land use, the broader interpretation may make that a matter for consideration at Tuesday's hearing.

Connection rates top Zone 7 agenda

Zone 7 of the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District will continue its discussion of connection charges to new homes within its service area at this Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting at Pleasanton Justice Court, including the allegations by the city of Pleasanton that the connection rates charged are inequitable.

Under its current connection rate schedule, homes using five-eighths-inch meters are charged $650 while those with three-quarter-inch meters are assessed $975

While most homes in the Valley use the smaller meter, Pleasanton changed to the larger size some three years ago in an effort to increase water pressure.

The city presented a 24-page argument to the Zone in February hoping to convince the directors the meter currently used is actually a "modified five-eighths-inch" meter and not a three-quarter-inch one, and that neither the modified nor the full three-quarter-inch meters use more water than the standard, single-family dwelling five-eighths-inch meter.

In March Pleasanton modified its connection fee schedule to charge all single-family dwellings a flat, $152 fee for any less than one-inch meter.

Representatives of the city argued with Zone directors at a recent water committee meeting to change the Zone's philosophy and charge a similar single-family residence fee.

Pleasanton earlier claimed it wanted a $192,000 refund from the Zone for alleged overcharges since the city started using the modified meter.

The Zone agreed to conduct several tests of the controversy.

Youthful pair arrested

PLEASANTON - Two young city residents were arrested last week for "interfering with a police officer" after they allegedly bungled patrolmen responding to a would-be burglary.

Police say John L. Barker, 21, and Charles C. Gonegal, 19, were arrested and taken to Santa Rita jail after they allegedly shouted, "It's the pigs. Look out," while police responded to what they thought was a burglary.

When patrolman Robert

Shaw went to move their car, however, he allegedly uncovered some marijuana, a pipe, and a tablet of LSD.

Two valley Viet victims

WASHINGTON - Two Valley residents are listed as missing and presumed dead in the crash earlier this month of a C5 transport plane outside Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport.

Service's plans to operate a transfer station on that site, spoke in favor of Molinaro's plans for low density residential development.

The commission continued the matter until April 28 for a final decision.

The commission approved a tentative tract map filed by Ribco, Inc. for subdivision of 43 acres in the Sierra Lane and Dougherty Road area into 13 industrial lots, ranging in size from 8 acres to 1.8 acres.

In other action, the planning board took testimony on the Dublin Land Company's proposal to rezone 10.91 acres at the corner of Dublin Boulevard and San Ramon Road from highway frontage to retail business and continued a decision until April 28.

Named on the list are June W. Poulton; and Orin J. Poulton, both of Livermore.

The C5 was airlifting Vietnamese orphans in "Operation Babylift."

The regional board meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the State Building Assembly Room, 1111 Jackson St.

because of that possible change in policy and because there are no ground rules for this kind of action, the board may not take action on the Apperson Ranch at Tuesday's meeting, but may continue the matter for a month.

The regional board meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the State Building Assembly Room, 1111 Jackson St.

Before adjourning the board will receive a financial report for last month, and view a film, "Designation for Area-wide Water Quality," distributed by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Program needs time and room

DUBLIN - Counselor Lynda Smith at Dublin High School has what seems like two very plausible needs.

A little more time each day and a room in which to operate.

At stake is the peer counseling program at the high school.

The program presently involves eight sophomores, juniors and seniors who tutor other students two or three days each week and counsel their own age level two days a week.

Four of the eight work with educationally handicapped and two at Wells Intermediate School.

The program evolved from a course taught in summer school last year by Kathy Ryan, a faculty associate of Ms. Smith, as well as a three-day conference they attended in Sacramento on peer counseling.

While the course has never been a part of the regular curriculum, it has managed to survive through the purposeful dedication of both Smith and Ryan. It has frequently meant pleading for meeting room space and holding discussions during evening hours.

Ms. Smith does most of the training of the peer counselors, and usually on her own time. "A lot of effort was spent just getting a room," relates the attractive young faculty member. "On Thursdays and Fridays the Hotline counselors are here and the kids can drop in if they're not involved in tutoring or regular class work. Anyone who is interested can become a member of peer counseling."

Ms. Smith does an evaluation and the students a self-evaluation of their counseling. This is passed on to the principal at Wells Intermediate School and Mike Hughes, teacher of educationally handicapped.

A major project at present is a brochure explaining what peer counseling is, to parents, teachers and students in conjunction with the brochure are questionnaires on peer group counseling. The object is to see how worthwhile it is so the values of the program can be presented to the school's budget committee...which will decide if the program will get a room and the direct services of a counselor.

The questionnaire to fellow teachers asks, among other questions, if they believe in the concept of peer counseling, would they refer a student to the counseling center, should a room be reserved for a peer counseling center, and should teachers be permitted to refer students to the peer counseling center, who for the first or second time are found under the influence of drugs.

An additional question asks teachers if they feel that a peer group counseling program would be effective on the junior high school level.

Several of the questions on the form sent to teachers appear on the questionnaire to parents.

The student questionnaire asks five responses including, "In the past, have you ever had a problem or concern that you were reluctant or unable to talk with your high school counselors about?" The two prime objections to peer counseling, according to Ms. Smith, are that students at this age do not have the emotional range to counsel other youngsters, and students are "using" this program just to get out of regular classes.

However, three seniors that Ms. Smith counsels are on the Honor Roll, one is not motivated in coming to school but likes to attend the counseling classes and four others have erratic scholastic records.

In addition to peer counseling, for which the school has not made a firm commitment to as yet, Ms. Smith is responsible for counseling 400 students throughout the year. She also writes senior letters...notifications to parents of seniors whose graduation is in doubt, and makes referrals to the school psychologist, Ralph Sanderson.

It is an arduous assignment but one that Ms. Smith hopes will focus on peer counseling, also, in the next school year. — by Al Fischer

Del Valle bids before Supes

Bids for the sale or lease of the Arroyo Del Valle Sanatorium will be opened at this morning's Alameda County Board of Supervisors meeting at 9 a.m. in the County Administration Building.

The eventual use of the sanatorium has been the subject of much discussion in the valley recently and the supervisors will have to decide between several profit-making enterprises and several public service-type uses.

Also on the agenda will be further discussion of the problems of medical care at Santa Rita. Last week, Dr. Mark Klein, the chief psychiatrist at the prison, stated that he was being fired because he was speaking out against alleged lack of mental health care at Santa Rita. His dismissal, plus Supervisor Tom Bates proposal to hold open public hearings on the matter, will come under the scrutiny of the board today.

Another Bates' proposal — this one a letter and proposed legislation that would begin proceedings to put the 25,000 plus acres of San Francisco County land in Alameda County under the zoning laws of the East Bay county — will also be discussed.

Presently, all the land owned by the City and County of San Francisco is out of the jurisdiction of Alameda County. An act of the legislature is required to bring that land under control of Alameda County and the supervisors are hoping to get a lawmaker to sponsor their proposed bill.

A traffic light at San Ramon Road and Shannon Avenue will also be discussed at the meeting, along with two other signals in the Hayward area. The total contract of $168,500 could be let out for bid at today's meeting.

A revision of the agreement between Alameda County and the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton, among others, will most likely be approved. The agreement concerns the Community Development and Housing Assistance Act, which will funnel over $4 million in federal funds into the county over the next three years.

The original agreement was drawn up without a clause specifying that the county has veto power over the cities' proposals and that oversight may be remedied today.

Also, the supervisors will consider a request to have the Director of Industrial Relations immediately removed from negotiations at the East Bay Regional Park District, where a strike is in progress.

Food stamps VCSD topic

Food stamps, automatic doors and a $77,879 loan will be some of the topics under discussion at the Valley Community Services District Board of Directors meeting tonight at 7:30 in Dublin.

The mixed bag of agenda items also includes a presentation from the Dublin Swim Club and a proclamation supporting the Veterans of Foreign Wars Buddy Poppy sale.

Heading the list is the question of food stamps, which became important last month when Valley Bank announced that it will no longer sell food stamps in the valley after May 1. VCSD directors first considered the possibility of having the district distribute the stamps at its April 1 meeting and General Manager Paul Ryan will return with a report tonight.

Presently, only about 600 sales of food stamps are made at Valley Bank per month; for that agency to break even requires between 1,000 and 1,500 sales a month. The United California Bank in San Ramon also sells food stamps.

The opening of two swimming pools has caused VCSD Fire Chief Phillip Phillips to request the purchase of two rescuers — one for each pool — for improved safety at a total cost of $1,238.

Phillips is also requesting that VCSD purchase an automatic door for Fire Station No. 1 at a cost of approximately $800. The door is necessary, according to Phillips, because presently the door has to be closed by a fireman, delaying the truck. Otherwise, it is left open and the equipment inside is unprotected.

The $77,879 loan will go to the Livermore Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA), if directors approve it, to tide the agency through cash flow difficulties. The money will be paid back as soon as state and federal money begins to flow into LAVWMA.

VCSD shares the cost of the LAVWMA with the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton, and the necessary $193,000 to get LAVWMA over its present difficulties will be divided proportionately over the three agencies.

Requests from the Dublin Swim Club and the San Ramon Valley Amateur Athletic Union Swim Club for use of the two VCSD swimming pools will also be considered by the directors.

As usual, committee reports and the consent calendar will also be dealt with as the directors see fit.

Valley Deaths

Funeral services were held Monday evening for Ernest Ferrario, 96, one time owner of the Rubio Vineyards, who died Friday, Apr. 11, 1975, in Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital.

A native of Italy, Mr. Ferrario owned the winery until its recent purchase by Southern Pacific Railroad, and had been a member of the California Wine Institute.

He is survived by his two daughters, Thelma F. Garin, San Francisco, and Romarita Simoni, Piedmont, three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

A rosary and Mass were celebrated in St. Leo's Church, Oakland, followed by entombment Tuesday in Mountain View Cemetery.

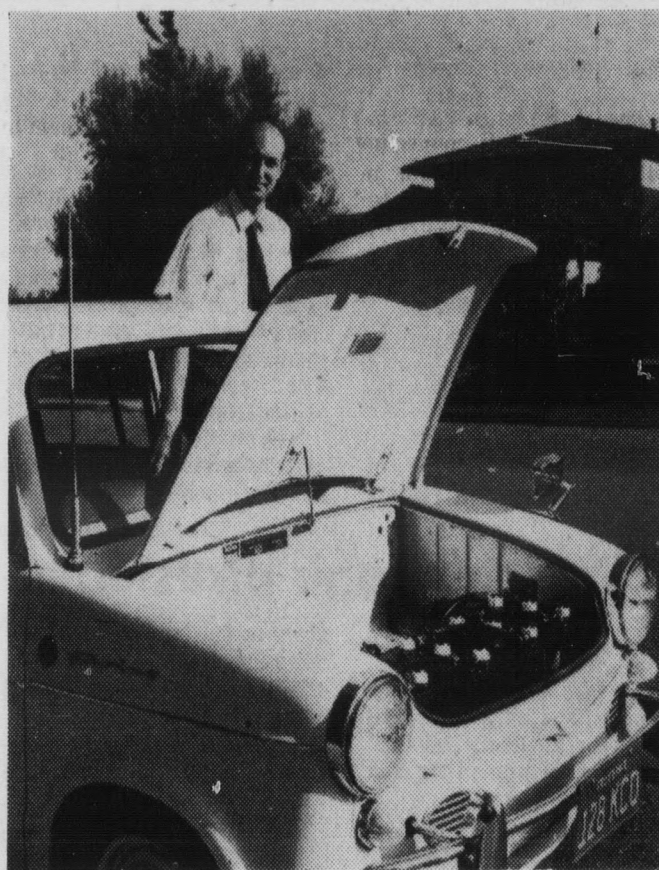

Albert E. Banner, formerly of San Francisco and now of Livermore, died in a Walnut Creek Hospital Sunday, April 13 at the age of 74 years.

Banner moved to Livermore in 1973 after retiring from Western Union, having served as a lineman for 38 years. His wife was the late Margaret Banner. He is survived by an adopted daughter, Miss Leone Lanfri of Livermore.

He leaves two brothers, Ben Banner of Shelton, Washington, and William Banner, of Vancouver, B.C., and a sister, Mrs. Laura Pond of Seattle, Washington.

Funeral services are scheduled for Wednesday, April 16 at 10 a.m. in the Chapel of Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave. in Livermore, where friends may call after 10 a.m. Tuesday. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday evening.

Contributions in his memory to the Heart Fund would be preferred by the family in lieu of flowers.

Ecological car

Terry Rossow of Livermore and other valley electric car owners will demonstrate their vehicles at the Ecology Fair Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at The Barn, end of Pacific Avenue in Livermore. Rides in the cars also will be offered. Rossow's car — a converted 1960 NSU — operates on 10 six-volt batteries (some of which are under the front hood and some in the back seat) with the actual motor in the trunk. His car, which he plugs in to recharge every night, will reach a speed of 59 mph and is good for 30 miles per charge. Rossow puts the total value of his car at $1,500 and says that others can convert their vehicles for under $1,000 if the car is in good mechanical condition.

Celebrate library week

The books wait silently in carefully ordered rows, and the guardians of that order discharge their myriad duties with quiet efficiency, their footsteps muffled on carpeted aisles and their conversation always gently subdued. Those who break into this world are quickly overcome with a kind of hushed reverence.

But the community library is far from a "quiet" place, and in this week designated National Library Week, all indications are that valley libraries are becoming increasingly popular, with greater demands on their services — and a greater variety of services available to a wider spectrum of patrons.

The Pleasanton library reports a circulation of 23,000 books in March, up 2,000 from last year, and over 400 new books have been acquired for the library's collection since January. Third in circulation in the county is the Dublin library with an average gain of 20 percent in the number of books loaned since January, according to librarian Virginia Bennett. Livermore's library acquisitions between 4,500 and 5,000 new books per year.

The Dublin library's original "Funk 'n Flash" contest was enthusiastically received by the creators (and appreciators of unusual items, and the community room at the Livermore library is in daily use by local organizations, according to library spokesmen.

With the advent of sophisticated materials, and lightening quick check-out equipment, the beginnings of the local libraries seem simple indeed.

The Livermore public library was organized when in 1878 C. J. Stevens donated a lot on First Street (opposite the K Street intersection) and erected a building for $500. Although this library soon went out of existence for lack of funds (sound familiar?), the Ladies' League of Progress re-established the library, and the town trustees bought 3,800 books from the Oakland Odd Fellows Hall library. The library is today approaching its 60,000-book capacity.

The Carnegie in 1911 Building was to house an expanding collection with funds from the Andrew Carnegie Foundation, and the city. The city library now in use was funded with a bond issue and opened in 1966.

Noteworthy is the remarkable record set by Mrs. Sarah Harp and her daughter Myrtle, for 53 of the library's 70 years from 1896 to 1949.

The Pleasanton library was born with an unusual rental arrangement of the Women's Improvement Society in 1908. The society deftly turned a one-time butcher shop into a reading room, with books from the Pleasanton Literary Society. Through the efforts of remarkable benefactress Phoebe Apperson Hearst, the "library" was able to arrange a loan of books from the Oakland library, and by 1911 had set up a card system and the inter-library loan system which is still operating.

After World War II, when Pleasanton experienced a population boom, the library was moved first to Kottinger Avenue, and then to a rented facility on Main Street between a laundromat and a supermarket. In 1963 it became a full-fledged branch of the Alameda County Library System.

In 1966 the Pleasanton Library Association sought to find a new location and a new building after the library's circulation jumped over 25 percent in five years. Caught between the city's indecision to build a permanent library and an expired lease on the facility on Main Street, the Pleasanton library was forced to close for nearly four months, its books stored in boxes at the Alameda County fairgrounds.

Temporarily located in a modular unit on Bernal Avenue near Main, the present library in Amador Park opened in 1973.

Dublin's library began in 1914 in one of the few original Dublin community buildings still standing, located at Donlon Way and Dublin Boulevard. At first an addition to the grocery store in that building, the library was tended by the storekeeper's wife and daughter. The Dublin library was phased-out about 1948 when the population of the area dwindled for lack of rail transportation, and the Alameda County bookmobile took its place.

Residents in the new San Ramon Village pooled their private book collections and set up a library in a garage in 1960, and by 1966 the venture had expanded into a larger modular unit near Dublin School. The present building, which has already outgrown itself, was built in 1970.

Activities planned to celebrate National Library Week will be held principally at the Pleasanton library. Tonight at 7:30 p.m. the library sponsors a special showing of award-winning short films by young filmmakers of Alameda County, followed by "The Lavender Hill Mob" starring Alec Guinness at 8 p.m.

The Wednesday evening showing of the classic "Pippi Longstocking" for children has been filled, and admission is by ticket only.

Dublin librarian Virginia Bennett will participate in the celebrations with a slide show and talk on history Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Pleasanton library.

The library has planned a Saturday Extravaganza with a pre-school "Glue-In" from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. and school-age "Glue-In" from 2 to 4 p.m. The youngsters will create sculptures, and collages from decorative scraps.

Saturday, a folk music concert on the Pleasanton library lawn will round-out the week.

The Dublin library, lacking the facilities for special programs, will honor the week with coffee, and cookies for all patrons.

Bicentennial

The Livermore Bicentennial Organization convenes Wednesday, April 16 to present an outline of Bicentennial activities for approval by the general membership.

The public is invited to the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Carnegie Building.

Livermore Junior installation today

"Safari with Sharon" is the theme chosen by Sharon Puffer, new president of the Livermore Junior Women's Club to be installed today at a luncheon at Castlewood Country Club.

Other new officers for the Juniors are Margie Quigley, first vice president; Maggie Smaltz, second vice president in charge of membership; Judy Setchell, third vice president in charge of ways and means; Bernice Seibel, secretary; Maureen Hensiek, treasurer; and Deanna Oreglia, auditor.

Mrs. Puffer has held numerous chairmanships during two and a half years as a Livermore Junior. Last year she served as second vice president for the club. In addition, Sharon does volunteer work at Smith School where her two daughters, Michelle and Heidi are students. Her husband, Rocky, is a past area governor of the Amador Valley Toastmasters.

A progressive dinner for members and spouses April 26 is in the offing, as well as plans for a refreshment concession at the May "Art in the Vineyard" art show.

The Livermore Junior Women's Club is open to women between the ages of 18 and 35 for community service and social activities. For further information contact Maggie Smaltz at 447-9392.

Seniors

The Livermore Senior Citizens Service Center at Eighth and H Streets has announced new office hours. The center will be open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 1 to 5 p.m. The change extends center services one hour later in the afternoon, and closes the center during the lunch hour. For further information about the center's services contact Lillian Snorf at 443-1150.

Homemakers aid

The job of homemaking will gain long-deserved recognition under legislation introduced by Senator Jerry Smith (D-San Jose) establishing pilot service centers to provide employment counseling and training to displaced homemakers.

The pilot centers, to be located in Alameda and Santa Clara counties, will serve the unique needs of an increasing number of persons in their middle years, usually women who find themselves without any source of income, and who have no marketable skills because they have devoted a major portion of their lives to making a home for their families.

The legislation (SB 825) provides that job counseling will build upon the skills acquired by homemakers and develop training programs for jobs such as lay advocates in social service agencies, home health technicians and health care counselors. The centers themselves will, when possible, be staffed by displaced homemakers and coordinate their efforts with existing government employment programs.

California Spring Garden Show reflects state's early days

"El Dorado Days" is the theme — and the 43rd annual California Spring Garden Show will be a horticultural reflection of the early days of the state's history.

The show will be in progress for nine days, April 26 through May 4. The site, attuned to the theme, is Oakland's turn-of-the-century estate, the Dunsuir House and gardens. The traditional preview program is scheduled Friday evening, April 25.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day except the last, when the show closes at 5 p.m. to prepare for the annual sale of plant materials.

Last year, as many times in the past, the show received the prestigious Bulkley Medal, top national award from the Garden Club of America.

Sponsor of the show is the first district of the Agricultural Association of California.

Halverson Nursery of Pleasanton will be among commercial exhibitors. The nursery's exhibit last year earned top recognition.

Other organizations participating are the American Fuchsia Society, the Wreath Club, the Oakland-East Bay Garden Center with a plant clinic, the Orchid Society of California and the East Bay Bonsai Society.

Easy access to the show is from the MacArthur Freeway, Interstate 580, off the Dutton-Estudillo ramp. Advance sale tickets at $1.50 are available through the Garden Show headquarters, 1322 Webster St., Oakland 94612, or call 569-2544.

Seek community input on Pleasanton Youth, Inc.

Parents are encouraged to attend the Pleasanton Youth, Incorporated board meeting Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in the youth building at Amador Park.

In an effort to increase community involvement, PYI directors would like to hear parents' opinions on the youth center and suggestions for the directions it might take.

"We are encouraging people to come and find out what the center is all about," explained Diana Larson. "It is an opportunity for people who would like to become involved and do have feelings one way or another to express them to the board."

Slated on the agenda for the meeting are election of officers; identifying previous goals; priority lists of additions or modifications of the building; setting new goals; community involvement; assigning a committee to investigate the need for future youth centers, and the possible transfer of ownership of the youth center.

South County Women's dental workshop

The workshop will cover the following topics: April 19 — the dental disease process; April 26 — how to prevent dental disease; and May 3 — how to make an oral exam.

All interested women are invited to the sessions at no charge. Sessions are limited to 15 participants, so contact the center at 537-2112 to reserve a space.

Drainage is the way

By Janet Tara

Once you have picked your pots, start planting, but remember these basics: Drainage on the bottom of the pot is very important, particularly in containers that have no drainage holes. A one-half to one-inch layer of pebbles or crushed pottery is necessary to catch any excess water in order to keep the roots dry.

Then add a layer of sterilized enriched potting soil

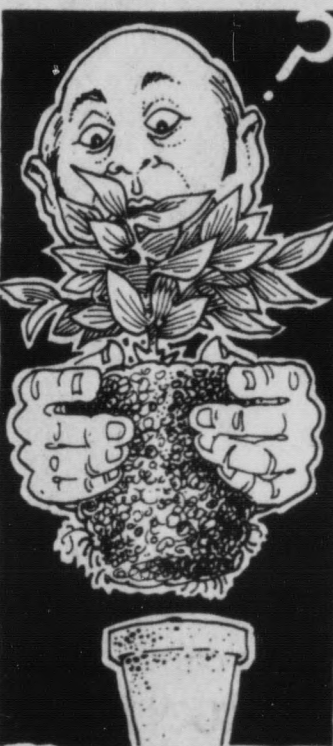

INDOOR GARDENS

Place the plant in the pot with the roots loosely packed in the original soil. While holding it upright, add more soil and pack it evenly, not too hard, until it is about an inch from the top of the pot. This room is necessary for watering.

Usually, it's a good idea to avoid disturbing new plants for a month or two after you buy them so they can adjust to their new surroundings.

But if you purchase them in the five and dime store instead of a nursery, the soil may be less than ideal and repotting in the same size container with new sterilized soil is necessary. Your plant will have a better chance for survival in good soil.

Conserve energy

"Insulate, Save Energy" is the newest of several booklets designed to help the consumer conserve energy, available at any PG&E office. Written in cooperation with the Electric and Gas Industry Association, it informs consumers that adequate insulation in the attic floor generally will save up to 20 percent on fuel bills in the heating season, with comparable savings in an air-conditioned home during the summer.

Amador Adult Education's spring quarter classes are underway at several locations in Dublin and Pleasanton.

Many new classes have been added covering a wide variety of interests. Many are the result of requests from the community.

Three classes in family living have been added, including Basic Education for the Handicapped, Parent-Child Observation and Consumer Homemaking. Two new crafts classes are being offered... Stained Glass and Leather Craft.

In the general interest area, four new classes had initial meetings the first week of the month. These are: Training for Effective Parents, College Admission Planning, Self Image and You and Practical Conservation.

Those who feel it is too late to enroll are reminded that enrollments are accepted throughout the session. However, if credit is desired a specified number of hours in attendance is required. The tuition fee is $4 per person per class. No charge is made for high school credit classes to those who do not have a diploma.

For more information on classes, call the Adult Education office at Foothill High School during the day (462-1615) or Dublin High School, 828-6410, or Amador Valley High School, 846-2818, between 7 and 10 p.m. Classes are held at Amador on Tuesdays and Thursdays and at Dublin on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Your powers of concentration won't be in full focus today. Mental discipline is called for to keep your mind on your work.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Keep close tabs on your possessions. Don't leave anything lying around that a stranger may take a fancy to.

An agreement made with a close friend will be broken when an offer you think more appealing comes up — unless you keep your word.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't accept help you don't absolutely need today. The aid could have strings that would be hard to cut.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Proceed slowly and cautiously on new projects at this time. Get all the facts and figures before taking each step.

Don't attempt to do two things of equal importance or both will suffer. Determine which is the most immediate. Concentrate on it.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Save the embarrassment of having to make excuses for something you promised to do for another. Put it at the top of your list.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
A firm hand is required in a situation you're responsible for. Those you're dealing with must be aware you're calling the shots.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Do what you know to be right. Don't be overly sensitive as to what another may think. She's only an observer.

You'll be more on the go mentally and physically this year. New interests will challenge your imagination and skills. Unexpected short trips are likely.

Some insurance plays aren't guaranteed to work. They are just there to insure against some bad break.

South looks over dummy and counts 11 top tricks. A 12th will develop if hearts break 3-3. Are there any ways to collect 12 against an uneven break in that suit?

One way is to draw trumps and duck a club to rectify the count for a possible squeeze. Then you win the second diamond in dummy, discard your last diamond on the club ace, ruff a club, lead your last trump and smile happily if it turns out that the man with four hearts also held five clubs or five diamonds.

A slightly better play is to take out some heart-spade insurance. You start by playing two rounds of trumps. Then cash your king of hearts, lead a heart to dummy's ace and a third heart back toward your hand.

If both opponents follow, you can draw the last trump and claim your slam. This time East can ruff, but if he does you still wrap your slam up. He will have used his last trump. Later on you will discard a diamond from dummy on your queen of hearts and avoid a diamond loser.

Of course, if East doesn't ruff you get to ruff your fourth heart and make your slam that way.

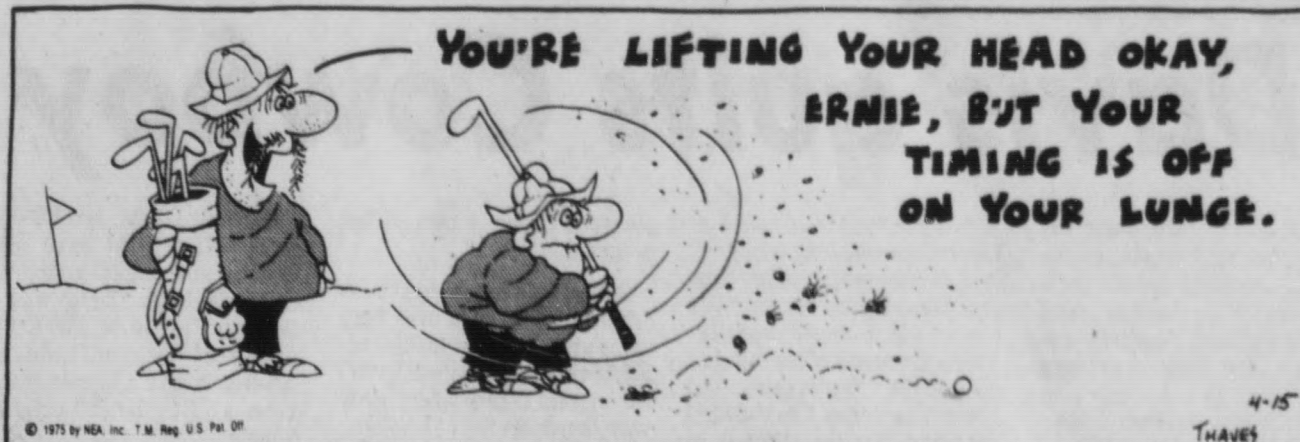

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding two diamonds your partner has bid two spades over your two clubs. What do you do now?

Davis quits Cowboy grid job, Berg named

Tom Davis confirmed his long-rumored resignation as Livermore High School football coach yesterday, and principal Paul Reginato appointed Ron Berg to replace him.

Berg, who earned a Masters Degree at University of Oregon and an unofficial doctorate from Davis, professor emeritus of high school coaching, has been the line coach at Livermore for seven seasons.

Davis hinted at retirement immediately following the Cowboys' 1974 football season, but the announcement was postponed until yesterday.

"Six years as head coach at Livermore was long enough," said Davis, who wouldn't reveal plans for his future. "It's about all I could handle. There are some other things I want to do," Davis said, "but I won't say that I'm through coaching. I'm just through at Livermore High."

"It will be darn hard to fill his shoes," Berg said of Davis, who coached back-to-back championship teams at Livermore in 1971-72. "There never could have been a better situation than working with Tom. He's such a great guy, and I have a great amount of respect for the things he's done. It's been a pleasure to be a part of his program."

Davis, who has been at Livermore since 1963, will stay on as athletic director the remainder of the school year. He wouldn't talk about next year, however.

The Cowboys enjoyed an up and down season in Davis' final bow as head coach. They ended it with an upset win over EBAL champion Dublin that the players said was dedicated to their coach.

It was right after that game when rumors surfaced concerning Davis' departure. Berg, 34, served for six seasons under Davis, and for one year before that with Don Couch, now head coach at Granada High. Berg was a two-way tackle at the University of Oregon, and an All-Northern California selection at St. Helena High School.

His promotion to the head coaching job justified a decision made years ago. "I had two choices, to be either an architect or a coach," Berg said. "I made up my mind right away to be a coach. One of the greatest things in this country is its sports, and the cultural heritage involved in sports."

Their aid will be invaluable, Berg said, since his forte is line play and their, backfield operation. "We were all involved in the total game plan," Berg said, "but I'm not saying I know all parts of the game. We've got some experienced coaches with a really great background.

Berg has been Livermore's track coach, but will step down from that role after this season.

The ground work for next year's football campaign will be laid this evening, Berg said, when he meets with assistant coaches Kevin Drake and Tom Favero.

"Right now we're evaluating what we're going to do," Berg said. "We're evaluating what's best for the kids in the short range, this coming season, and what's best for them in the long run."

Opening up was Davis' policy at Livermore, with football teams that passed nearly as often as they ran.

Berg labelled himself more conservative than his predecessor, but promised the Cowboys would continue to throw the football. "We've got some good quarterbacks coming up, and Palmer (returning starter Rich Palmer) is an excellent passer. We know we have the passing game, but we'll build on the running game."

"Right now we're evaluating what we're going to do," Berg said. "We're evaluating what's best for the kids in the short range, this coming season, and what's best for them in the long run."

"I hope every kid who plays football will look back when he's done and have some of his fondest memories from football."

Prior to his seven year stint at Livermore, Berg was an assistant football coach at Klamath Union High School in Oregon. His total apprenticeship covers 10 years. "I wasn't that hot about jumping out of the frying pan," Berg said. "I wanted to gain the experience."

Much of it was gained under the tutelage of Davis, one of the Bay Area's most respected coaches. Besides his two football titles, Tom also guided Livermore to a baseball championship. He coached a winner in the high school all-star classic, and was named this month as an advisory coach to that game.

Davis left Livermore one year to become head football coach at Mt. Hood Jr. College in Oregon, and was successful there.

The Livermore coach has had job offers recently, but wouldn't elaborate on them. — Mike Zampa

Pitching question mark as Gaels try to move up

Dublin High School can move within a scant half-game of first place in EBAL baseball this afternoon if the Gaels continue their extraordinary pitching patterns in a 3-30 game at Granada.

And Amador Valley can climb back into the pennant race if it reverses a sagging offensive trend at home against Livermore.

Those are the only two games on the league schedule.

Dublin, 2-1, faces Granada, 0-2, with an impressive string of pitching successes to back it up. The Gaels have not allowed a run in their last 15 innings of EBAL baseball, and in their last two games have checked the opposition on seven hits.

Still there are questions to be asked of the Dublin staff. Like who will pitch today. John Prieto, the number one hurler, worked seven innings Friday. The second pitcher, Steve Grant, left the team last week. Larry Castello, Robin Sherwood or Jim Orman could get the call against Granada.

Pitching is of no concern to Amador, which has limited the opposition to three runs in its last two games.

The Dons have been shut out however, over the last 15 innings of league action. They have just five hits in the last two games, and only three of those reached the outfield.

Much could depend on the health of shortstop Greg Belinger today. One of the Dons' top hitters, Belinger was injured in a game a week ago, and sat out a loss to Dublin Friday.

Monte Vista rated eighth in EB poll

East Bay Athletic League leader Monte Vista, now 3-0 in league play, moved from 10th position to eighth in the East Bay prep writers' baseball poll released today.

The Mustangs, who last week narrowly defeated both Amador Valley and Granada to take sole possession of the first rung, have a 5-2 record overall.

Amador, ranked seventh last week, fell to 10th by virtue of two league losses.

Skyline of Oakland continued to lead the ratings with an 8-1 overall mark and 1-0 in OAL play.

EBAL teams receiving honorable mention were Dublin (6-5), San Ramon (6-5) and Granada (5-6).

Jack thinking Slam?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It's started again, just the way Jack Nicklaus wanted it.

"I'd like," Nicklaus told a friend three weeks ago, "to get some of that '72 conversation going again."

In 1972 Nicklaus began an assault on golf's unscaled heights, a quest for a one-year sweep of the world's major titles — the Masters, the American and British Opens and the PGA national championships.

It has not been accomplished. Many feel it is impossible, or at least the most unlikely of achievements in the world of sport.

Nicklaus tried mightily that year. He won the Masters, the first leg. Then he won the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach in California, the second leg.

He went to Muirfield, Scotland, for the British Open with the sports world agog. It is his favorite course in the world, the course after which he has patterned his life's dream layout near Columbus, Ohio.

He was poised for the third leg, but he fell one shot short as Lee Trevino, who later admitted he'd given up, chipped in twice in the stretch run. The talk of the Grand Slam ended.

Now it has started again, thanks to Nicklaus' victory last weekend in the Masters. Again he has the first leg.

He feigned surprise when the subject was broached. "I've said it before, but I'll say it again: The Grand Slam is possible, but it is not probable."

Mustang golfers shade Livermore

Bob Martin of Monte Vista shared medalist honors with Livermore's Mike Lewis as the visiting Mustangs took a narrow 196-198 EBAL golf victory in yesterday's match with the Cowboys at Las Positas.

It was cold and windy on the course, and Livermore coach Jim Raybourne expressed minor surprise at the scores. "With the weather the way it was, I didn't think either team would break 200. It was a good match though, and a tough one to lose."

"Their number six man, Olsen, played quite a bit above himself, I think," Ray-bourne added. Indeed, the Mustangs' Steve Olsen shot a fine 38, just ahead of Livermore's Keith Voelker (39) for the runner-up spot.

Bunched at 40 were two golfers from each team — MV's Carl Richardson and Tom Smith, and Cowboys Jeff Smith and Neil Zurawski.

John Wilkins and Ron Low of Monte Vista both carded 41's, and Livermore's Steve Scontriano and Mark Voelker were next with a pair of 42's.

In other EBAL action yesterday, Amador Valley topped Dublin, 207-217, at San Ramon National.

Dublin JV's win in eight

Rod Orman's double in the top of the eighth inning scored Bob Jarrell from second with the winning run as the Gaels took a 2-1 decision from host Foothill High yesterday.

With two out, Jarrell singled off Randy Scroggins and stole second to set up the winning tally.

Scroggins struck out 12, going the distance to shoulder the loss. Winner Rich Jensen also pitched eight full, and fanned four.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

ACTION FROM LAST WEEKEND'S MANOUSOS TWO-ON-TWO TOURNEY
Hine and Mona (light jerseys) battle Costello and Hart

Cavestri, Phillips take 2-on-2

Bruce Cavestri and Ken Phillips defeated Ed Costello and Dennis Hart for first place in the third annual Manousos Invitational Two on Two Basketball Tournament, held Saturday at Amador High.

Cavestri, a former Amador hooper now playing at USC, and Phillips went undefeated through four games. Costello and Hart, meanwhile, were 5-2 on the long day that went from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Phillips hit 17 of his team's 24 points in the final, while Costello collected 10 of his team's 18.

Dave Manousos, who did an excellent job organizing and running the tournament, joined with Jim Hart to finish third, as they upended pre-tourney favorites Jim Day and Robert Pullizano, 24-20.

Sixteen teams competed in the affair, which in the opinion of everyone, was fantastic.

Manousos hopes to run more similar basketball tournaments throughout the year.

Steve Kohler and Jim Turner finished in fifth place, while Ed Bevilacqua and Pat O'Brien came in sixth.

Jeff Hine had to fill in for O'Brien, who suffered an injury midway through his game with Cavestri and Phillips. After observation, O'Brien came out with a swollen ankle.

O'Brien was the tournament's leading shooter before leaving. In the first game he hit 13 of 19 shots when he and Bevilacqua upended Manousos and Hart.

Tony Costello and Mike Gadd made it to the consolation finals before falling. The two ex-Amador hoopsters downed Manousos and Hart, 24-10. Earlier they had dumped the team of Jeff Hine and Steve Mona, 24-18, to earn the right to go to the consolation finals.

Rick Kane and Jeff Walker won their opening round contest by edging Mike McGregor and Paul Latona, 24-20.

Rob Sulon and Pete Miller defeated the duo of Steve Hansen and Glen Black in the opening round, before falling to Koehler and Turner.

Rob Hicks and Don Jacobson fell in the first round, then rebounded with a win before falling prey to Hart and Manousos.

In what had to be the most exciting game of the day, Hart and Costello extended Day and Pullizano to 36-32 before falling on a Pullizano free throw.

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory researchers are conducting studies of pipe-clogging deposit build-up and other chemistry and material problems associated with harnessing energy from the high temperature, high salinity geothermal brines near here.

The studies are part of the Laboratory's geothermal energy development program, aimed at harnessing the geothermal resource characteristic of this region. It is one of a number of Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) projects to develop geothermal energy.

The program emphasizes methods of simultaneously using both liquid and vapor (steam) fractions of the geothermal resource. Existing geothermal power plants use only steam. Discarded brine may contain as much energy as the steam, however, and Livermore researchers believe geothermal power output can be increased by as much as 60 per cent if the total flow is harnessed.

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory is operated for ERDA by the University of California.

The brine, chemistry and materials studies involve several facets, according to Fred

Fulton, deputy leader of the Laboratory's Metallurgy Division. Using the wellhead product from an existing geothermal well near the southern tip of the Salton Sea, researchers are examining the following general areas:

- Basic brine chemistry, in which brine samples will be returned to the Laboratory's main site for extensive analysis;

These brines contain up to 30 per cent dissolved salts and minerals. They are very complex and undergo chemical changes during flow up the well and through nozzles and turbines. It is felt that the brines must be much better understood in a basic sense before they can be harnessed to generate electricity.

● Scale formation analyses, in which the wellhead product is expanded through various nozzles and orifices. The intent is to determine precisely how changes in temperature and pressure influence the build-up rate and character of clogging deposits.

from the highly saline

● Materials studies, in which the resistance of various polymers and alloys to erosion and scale build-up will be analyzed. Researchers wish to develop a more complete understanding of the nature of materials having high resistance to these problems, with the aim of developing new, improved ones for eventual turbine blades and nozzles in a demonstration power plant.

The well producing the test brine is operated by a consortium consisting of Southern California Edison, Southern Pacific Land Company and Phillips Petroleum Company. The current series of experiments is an extension of preliminary work done at the same well last summer in parallel with the consortium's geothermal research efforts. The Livermore experiments are being done under an agreement between the consortium and the Regents of the University of California.

'Swinging Fifties'

The Vintage Hills PTA is having a "Swingin' Fifties" Dance Saturday, April 26 from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Mrs. Jackie Williams and Mrs. Lani Battleson, co-chairmen of the event, have obtained many donations from local merchants for prizes at the dance. They are pictured here receiving a ham from Walt Callahan of Cole's Market. For tickets at $5 a couple call 462-1840 or 846-1453. Costumes are optional.

Kindergarten registration in progress

LIVERMORE - Kindergarten registration for children who will be five years old by Dec 2 is in progress in the Livermore Unified School District and will continue through May 9.

Parents may select any local elementary school (not necessarily the school where the child will be going although this is desirable) and make an appointment for the necessary form - filling and testing. Registration is 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Schools will be taking registration on the following schedule: Almond Avenue, April 14 - 16; Marilyn Avenue, April 14 - 16; Arroyo Mocho, April 14 - 16; Sonoma, April 15; Rancho Las Positas, April 17 - 18; Rincon Avenue, April 21 - 23; Green, April 21 - 23; Fifth Street, April 21 - 23; Arroyo Seco, April 24 - 25; Michell, April 28 - 30; Emma C. Smith, May 1 - 5; Jackson Avenue, May 5 - 9; and Portola Avenue, May 5 - 7.

Parents should bring along the prospective kindergarten's birth certificate and a list of immunizations. Before starting school, children must have protection against polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Granada gets boost from show

LIVERMORE - Granada High School's cultural arts department will get a $200 boost at the end of the month, thanks to the artists and craftspeople of the annual Pro Arts Show.

The artists will be joining with merchants at the Granada Shopping Center to make the contribution, since they feel school tax money has been used in other areas and "continually cut back in the Cultural Arts Department," according to a prepared announcement.

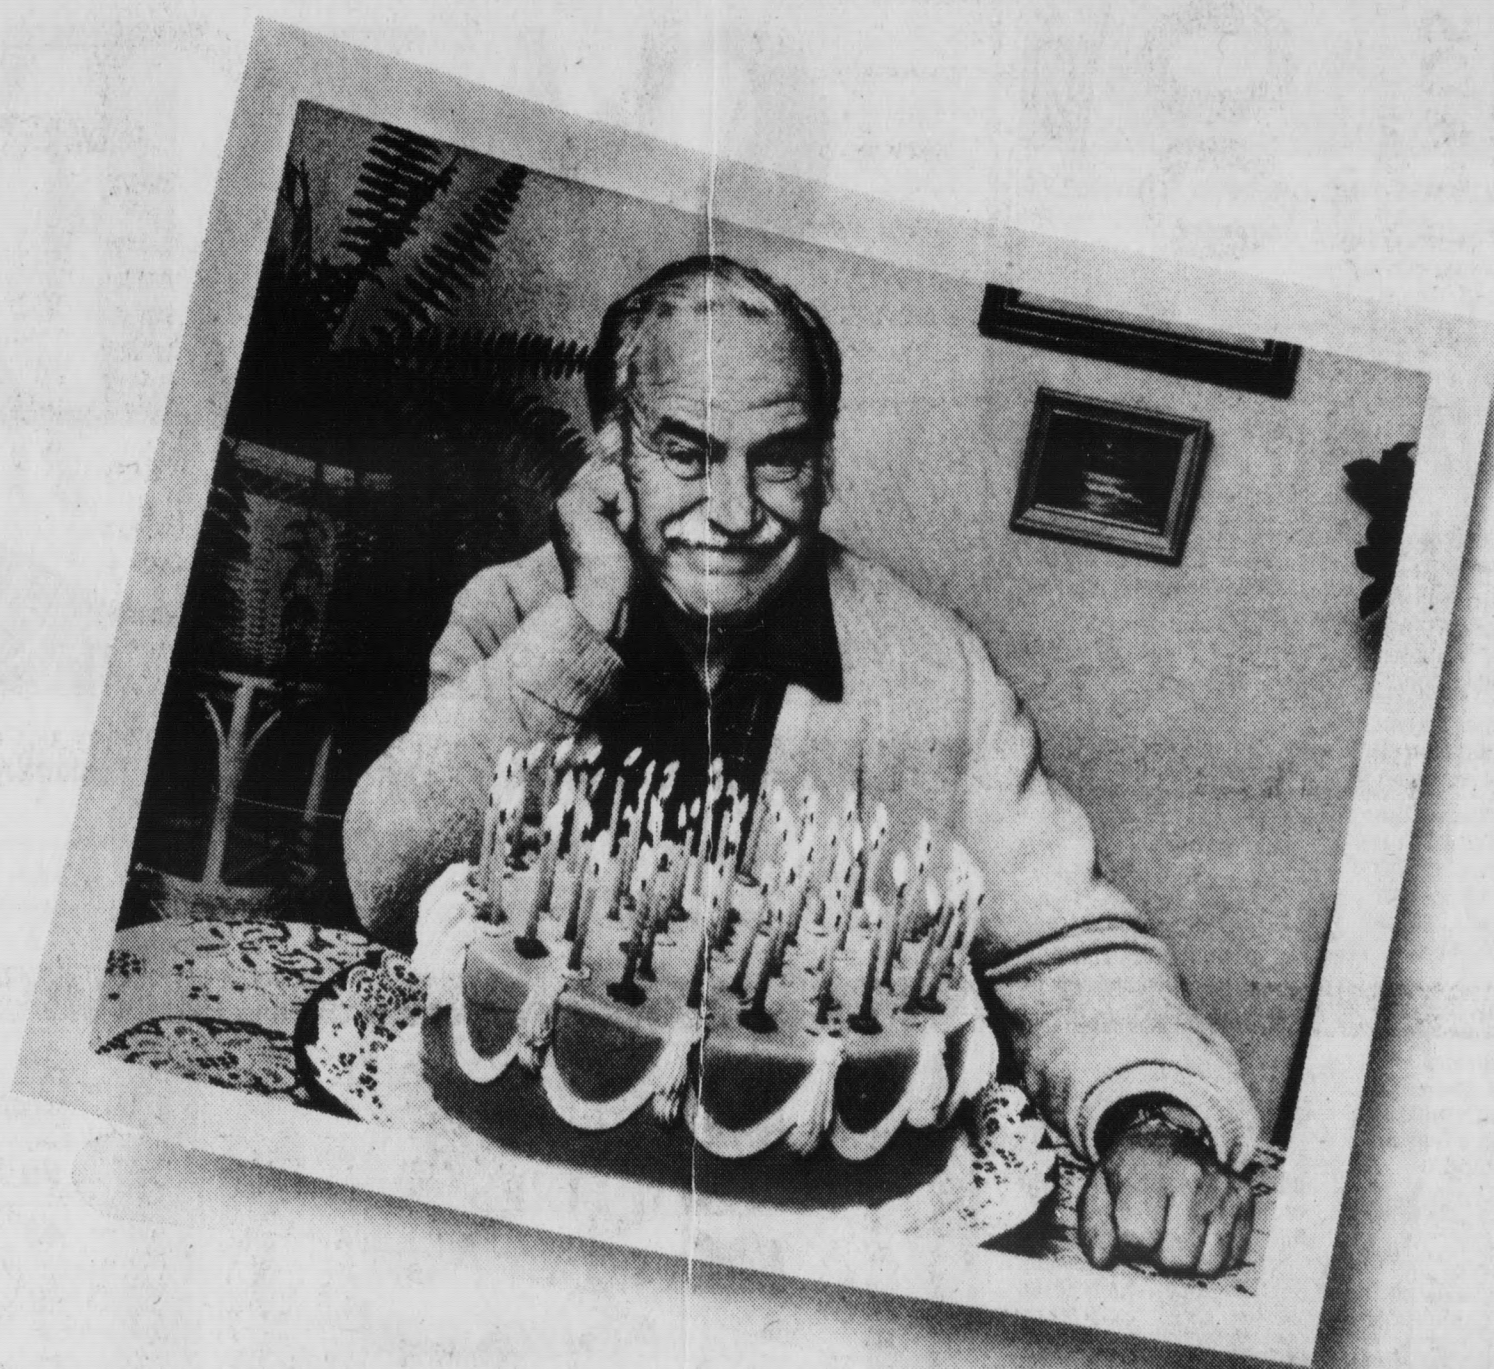

"It is the desire of the now working full time professional artists to encourage a second generation," says the statement "That encouragement must start in the schools where the student gains his or her original background in the arts. We need the creative thinkers of the future."

The artists will be welcoming the public at their show, April 24 through 27, in the Granada Shopping Center at Holmes Street and Catalina Drive. Watching art in action will be part of the program, along with meeting Bay Area artists and shopping for original art.

Nuclear power

Selecting the nuclear power field for a U.S. Navy enlistment is George Paul Robinson Jr. the son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Robinson Sr. of Cedar Drive, Livermore. George is a 1974 Graduate of Granada High School.

In selecting the Nuclear Power Field, George was guaranteed two years training in physics, electronics, chemistry, and nuclear engineering. According to officials at the Navy Recruiting Station the nuclear field is one of the Navy's best training curriculums and is unequalled by other sources. It is a package program which was put together by the Atomic Energy Commission, civilian industry, and the Navy.

Bicentennial learn-in Camp Fire leaders and other youth organization leaders throughout the Bay Area turned out in full force Friday at the Alameda County Fairgrounds cafeteria to take advantage of the Bicentennial Learn-in sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls Organization.

The workshops were designed to teach group leaders, advisors, day camp counselors and others how to bring the Bicentennial into programs with the young people in mind. The workshops included demonstrations, displays and learning-while-doing.

Youth organizations are working diligently in getting the young people ready for the Bicentennial celebration by teaching them the history of the past.

4-H picnic attracts many

Approximately 500 children, youths and adults turned out Saturday at the Alameda County Fairgrounds to participate in the annual 4-H Picnic Day. The day is planned by junior and senior leaders of 4-H through the county office.

The family day had the crowd basking in the first warm sunny day the Valley has had since spring arrived enjoying their picnic, watching the demonstrations, games, presentation of awards and the main event of the day, the pig scramble.

The pig scramble consists of a number of pigs greased and turned loose in a area marked off for the action. Those desiring to raise the piglets try to catch them. Those who catch a piglet for raising for the fair are responsible for either the same size piglet for next year's scramble or the cost of the pig caught.

The next county wide activity for 4-Hers is Dog Care Field Day at Lake Elizabeth, Fremont.

Anyone interested in joining 4-H may contact the County office in Oakland.

Summer home sought

Valley families interested in playing host to a Japanese student for a month this summer are invited to contact "Homestay," one of the proliferating organizations dedicated to bringing international youth together.

Barbara Schwarzenberger of Dublin High School will be teacher-coordinator for the Dublin and Pleasanton areas and Donna Inglesby is in charge of the Livermore area. Students will attend English conversation classes or take local excursions daily. Sixty students, aged 16 to 23, will arrive July 24 and stay until Aug. 21.

Further information may be obtained from Schwarzenberger at Dublin High, 828-6410, ext. 29, between 2 and 3:30 p.m. weekdays, or at home in San Leandro after hours, 483-0352. Livermore families may get in touch with Inglesby at 846-5697.

Livermore wants trucks to be 'movin' on'

LIVERMORE - Efforts to clear large parked trucks on the side of Portola Avenue between Murietta Boulevard and N. L Street are being made by the city—again.

Herbert Crowle, Alameda County director of public works, has promised Livermore City Manager Bill Parness he will recommend to the board of supervisors that parked trucks be prohibited in the area.

The vehicles on Portola are parked on unincorporated, thus county, land abutting the City of Livermore.

Parness, at the request of the city council, wrote to Crowle to complain of the unsightly trucks.

"Our main concern is that such vehicles do constitute a blemish on the appearance of the area in which they are parked and our city is constantly striving for the upgrading and beautification of our city entranceways," wrote Parness.

Crowle, in his response to Parness, noted that although the parked trucks are not adverse to the roadway, they are taking up space which could otherwise be used by commuters who board the BART feeder buses at Portola and Murietta.

His recommendation to the supervisors will ask that a traffic regulation prohibiting parking of vehicles over 20 feet in length on Portola be adopted.

Necessary signs could be posted along the street shortly after board approval, Crowle said.

The parked trucks and trailer rigs are owned and/or operated by local residents, according to Parness. They are prohibited by city traffic regulations from parking on city streets.

"Admittedly, this is a most difficult problem for these vehicles operators since large privately-owned off-street parking accommodations which are serviceable are most difficult to find," Parness said.

Homeowners take to busing

SAN RAMON — Members of the San Ramon Homeowners Association will take up discussion of the proposed Bay Area Rapid Transit - AC Transit Valley bus routes at this Thursday's 7:30 p.m., meeting in Neil Armstrong School.

The association will also discuss their campaign for the upcoming school district lease/purchase bond issue to be presented to the voters May 27.

Association President Mike Wahlg will be absent from this meeting, according to an association representative, and the meeting will be chaired by Chuck Henry.

Carnival of fun comes to Dublin

Dublin Plaza will become a typical "Country Fair" Thursday through Sunday, April 17-20, complete with exhibits, a midway of amusement rides and a free mini-circus, announces ... Frank Perego, president of the merchants association.

The Dublin Plaza merchants have retained the services of Wally Blake, one of the nation's leading shopping center promotion specialists, to coordinate a "Country Fair."

He heads his own Culver City based public relations firm called "Organized Excitement."

The local scheduling of "Country Fair" is part of a debut of the event which will travel for the first time into the San Francisco area. The retail promotion concept is in its twelfth year of operation.

Blake promises that the "Country Fair" will be one of the Dublin community's most exciting events of the year.

The fair will open Thursday when the "Carnival Time Shows" owned by Larry and JoAnn Davis begins operation of its giant midway of rides.

The midway will open about 2:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 11 a.m. on Saturday and noon on Sunday so as not to interfere with local church services. Dublin Plaza merchants will be offering special discount ride coupons which make possible obtaining five ride tickets for one dollar. Without these coupons individual ride tickets will cost more.

Free mini-circus performances will be presented daily by Happy the Clown and his "Happytime Circus" which appears at the California State Fair and many leading county fairs annually. Free shows will be offered at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 11 a.m. 1-3 p.m. Saturday and at 2-4 and 6 p.m. Sunday.

All boys and girls 7 to 12 years of age are urged to enter the Kids Clown Costume Contest to be held at the 3 p.m. circus performance Saturday. A valuable gold trophy from Hollywood will be presented to the Best Boy Clown and to the Best Girl Clown. Special entry blanks will be made available at Dublin Plaza for this contest.
